

Highlights:

- Large-scale data analysis of the spot foreign exchange market
- Analysis of price response functions for different years and time scales
- Price functions show an increase to a maximum followed by a slow decrease
- Analysis of the bid-ask spread impact in the price response functions
- All the results are similar to what has been found in stock markets